Hello!

Regrettably, in light of the growing concern about social gatherings and in accordance with the recommendations from King County Public Health and other authorities, we will NOT be gathering at the Hall at Fauntleroy for our annual auction on Friday, March 27, as originally planned. We are working on plans to reconfigure the event so we can still successfully support the school and celebrate with one another.

Our auction team is looking at alternatives that will help us achieve our critical fundraising goals and maintain the fun spirit of the event. We are considering online auction options, for example. We have really great items that people have donated, and we want to make them available to online bidders. We will let you know how we plan to ask for support for our Fund a Need, always a crucial part of our auction fundraising, and something we believe is important. More on that soon! Conditions permitting, we will host an adult event later in the year that will be a community celebration. We expect that one of the things we will be celebrating is the success of the reimagined, reconfigured auction!

If you have already purchased auction tickets, I will be in touch with you about a refund. If you sent in an RSVP card with your credit card information, those have not been charged.

Thank you for your patience and understanding as we navigate this uncharted course. Please let us know if you have any questions.

Warmly,

Carol
